A Biopharmaceutical and healthcare executive committed to improving people's health by ensuring sustainable access to science & innovation. She has a proven track record of driving results and developing engaged and performance-driven teams. Experienced in strategic planning and operational execution across multiple countries in Latin America and the Caribbean. From 2016 until 2021 she held the position of Country General Manager for Merck in Puerto Rico leading the subsidiary's transformational journey by developing its long-term market aspiration. Exceeded financial objectives by driving over $240 million dollars in gross sales, above budget by 10%, driving growth by 7%, and reaching ranking #2 in the pharmaceutical market.

During her international assignment in Mexico, she was responsible for the operating and strategic results of MSD Diversified Brands and Women's Health Business Unit contributing 48% of total subsidiary sales, over $180 million dollars in gross revenue while efficiently managing expenses of over $10 million dollars. Successfully executed a major transformational plan pivoting towards innovation in the business unit operating model.

To drive sustainable healthcare access and economic growth opportunities for Puerto Rico she joined and volunteered in several trade associations and NGOs. She has participated as a guest speaker and panelist in multiple health forums in Puerto Rico, Latin America, and the United States.

As President of the Pharmaceutical Industry Association from 2018 until 2020 she successfully executed the strategic pillars while strengthening the industry image for Puerto Rico. She successfully worked with industry leaders and local and federal government agencies during her tenure to address complex and unprecedented situations including natural disasters, government turmoil, and the pandemic lockdown. The PR Chamber of Commerce recognized her contribution and leadership in the bio-pharmaceutical industry by awarding her the 2020 Zenit Award. She was also recognized as Executive of the Year by the Women Who Lead organization.

She is the Managing Partner of Perry Health & Wellness Group a health solutions company that delivers medical education, wellness programs, consulting services, and medical services and equipment to customers.

To promote a healthy lifestyle among patients and drive access to innovative therapies and services she co-founded the Caribbean Anti-Aging Medicine Association. The mission is to advance the field of Anti-Aging Medicine through education and networking with the end goal of bringing a better quality of life to the world's aging population.
